

Academic Integrity Contract for Introduction to Macroeconomics (ECON 1007)

Read the following on academic integrity carefully. Once you have read it and clearly understand it and its implications, sign, and date below. Then upload your signed document to your Academic Integrity Dropbox. Failure to upload this signed document may result in your midterm examination grades not being released to you.

As a student at Algoma University registered in business courses you understand that Algoma is training future business leaders in all fields. Integrity, ethics, and professionalism are critical components in business.

What is Academic Integrity?

Academic integrity is defined as “...a commitment, even in the face of adversity, to six fundamental values: honesty, trust, fairness, respect, responsibility, and courage.”
[International Center for Academic Integrity, 2023]

As a student enrolled in this course you will:

- Read and UNDERSTAND Algoma University’s policy on Academic Integrity found on Algoma’s University’s Policies and Procedures webpage. This includes understanding the implications on your grade and academic career if academic integrity is not maintained.
- Understand that academic integrity means that the work you do is your own work. This means:
 - You will not search for answers on the internet.
 - You will not use your cell phone or ANY other means of communication during testing.
 - You will not share your answers with any other student.
 - You will not upload your course material or test questions or answers to any website or any other potential storage device, area, or cloud.
 - You will not have someone else do your work for you.
 - You will not copy anyone’s work from any source without providing credit to that author through appropriate referencing.
 - You will not use any artificial intelligence software, or website to complete your work.
- Understand that the above points are examples of breaches in academic integrity and not all inclusive.
- Educate your fellow students on the importance of academic integrity.

By signing below, you confirm that you have read the above statement and the corresponding Algoma University Policies and that you will abide by these policies at all times.
